Manager

With profound gratitude to the Divine Providence, I extend my heartfelt greetings through this inaugural edition of our bi-monthly chronicle for the new academic year. As we witness the fruition of our long-cherished aspiration for autonomy, I am reminded of the unwavering vision of our founders who established this temple of learning with the mission of transforming young minds through value-based education. The implementation of the Four-Year Undergraduate Programme (FYUGP) in consonance with our autonomous status is indeed providential, as it aligns perfectly with our institutional ethos of fostering holistic development. This convergence presents us with a sacred responsibility to craft an educational paradigm that not only nurtures academic excellence but also instills strong moral values, social consciousness, and spiritual growth in our students. Our institution, guided by the principles of our founding fathers and strengthened by our rich Christian minority heritage, is now empowered to design programmes that bridge the contemporary with the eternal, the secular with the sacred. As the Manager of the institution, I assure our steadfast commitment to providing the necessary infrastructure, resources, and support systems to realize this noble vision. Let us unite in this mission, drawing strength from our faith and tradition, as we work towards molding our students into enlightened citizens who will serve as beacons of hope and agents of positive transformation in society. May the Almighty continue to shower abundant blessings upon our institution, guiding us in our renewed journey towards academic sovereignty and excellence.

Principal

It is with profound gratification that I pen this inaugural message for our bi-monthly chronicle as we embark upon this new academic year, a watershed moment in the annals of Bharata Mata College. The conferment of autonomous status upon our esteemed institution heralds the dawn of a new epoch in academic excellence and institutional sovereignty. This momentous transition, synchronizing seamlessly with the implementation of the Four-Year Undergraduate Programme (FYUGP), positions our institution at the vanguard of contemporary higher education reform. The convergence of these transformative developments—our autonomous status and the FYUGP framework—presents an unprecedented opportunity to architect a curriculum that harmoniously blends academic rigour with industry relevance, fostering multidisciplinary learning and holistic development. The implementation of FYUGP, with its emphasis on flexibility, choice-based credit systems, and multiple exit options, exemplifies our commitment to student-centric education. This progressive curriculum framework, coupled with our institutional autonomy, will empower us to nurture not just scholars, but renaissance individuals equipped with the intellectual dexterity and practical competencies essential for the rapidly evolving global landscape. In this context, our bi-monthly chronicle shall serve as a vital medium for documenting our collective journey, showcasing scholarly achievements, and fostering intellectual discourse within our academic community. As we stand at this pivotal juncture, I earnestly solicit the wholehearted participation and unwavering commitment of every member of our institution. Together, let us harness this transformative potential to elevate Bharata Mata College to unprecedented heights of academic distinction, while steadfastly upholding our foundational ethos of excellence, integrity, and social responsibility.

Academic Director

I am deeply honored to address you as the Academic Director of Bharata Mata College in this inaugural edition of our bi-monthly chronicle for the new academic year. This communication comes at an extraordinarily significant juncture as our institution embraces twin transformations – the prestigious autonomous status and the implementation of the Four-Year Undergraduate Programme (FYUGP). As someone stepping into this pivotal role during such a transformative phase, I am both humbled by the responsibility and energized by the boundless possibilities that lie ahead. The transition to autonomy, coupled with the FYUGP framework, presents us with an unprecedented opportunity to reimagine our academic landscape. My primary vision is to orchestrate a seamless integration of these changes while establishing robust academic systems that will define our institutional identity in the years to come. We are now empowered to design innovative curricula, implement dynamic assessment methodologies, and foster research initiatives that resonate with both global standards and local needs. The FYUGP's multidisciplinary approach aligns perfectly with our goal to nurture well-rounded professionals equipped with both theoretical knowledge and practical competencies. In my capacity as Academic Director, I am committed to fostering a collaborative academic environment where innovation thrives alongside tradition. We shall be establishing various academic quality circles, curriculum development cells, and faculty development programs to ensure the smooth implementation of our autonomous curriculum. As we chart this new course, I extend an open invitation to all members of our academic community to share their insights and participate actively in this journey of academic excellence. Together, let us embrace this opportunity to build an academic framework that not only meets the challenges of contemporary education but sets new benchmarks in higher education.

IQAC Coordinator

It gives me great pleasure to address you through this first edition of our bi-monthly chronicle for the new academic year. The convergence of our newly acquired autonomous status and the implementation of FYUGP presents an exceptional opportunity to reinforce and elevate our quality benchmarks across all institutional processes. The IQAC assumes a pivotal role in this transformative phase as we integrate the demands of autonomy with robust quality assurance mechanisms. Our immediate focus is on establishing comprehensive quality parameters for curriculum design, teaching-learning methodologies, and assessment frameworks under the FYUGP structure. We have already initiated the development of outcome-based education templates, standardized operating procedures for academic and administrative processes, and systematic feedback mechanisms to ensure seamless quality management in our autonomous journey. The IQAC is committed to facilitating regular faculty development programs, promoting research initiatives, and establishing strategic collaborations to enhance our academic ecosystem that aligns with both the National Education Policy 2020 and our institutional goals under autonomy. We have also developed a detailed roadmap for strengthening our internal academic audit mechanisms, documenting best practices, and institutionalizing quality enhancement initiatives. I earnestly solicit the active participation of all stakeholders in our quality enhancement endeavors. Let us work collaboratively to establish Bharata Mata College as a benchmark institution for academic excellence and quality education under the autonomous framework.

Annual Gathering for Academic Moulding

AGAM (Annual Gathering for Academic Moulding), the annual academic retreat of Bharata Mata College (Autonomous), Thrikkakara, was held on May 20th, 21st, 23rd, and 24th, 2024 at the MBA Auditorium. Organized by the IQAC, this program was designed as an opportunity for the institution to engage in self-evaluation of the previous academic year and to outline a strategic action plan for the year ahead. It also served as a platform to prepare the college for its transition to autonomous status.

Inauguration

The event began on May 21st with an inaugural ceremony. Dr. Johnson K M, Principal of the college, extended a warm welcome to the dignitaries and participants. Rev. Fr. Dr. Abraham Oliapurath, the institution's Manager, inaugurated the retreat, followed by a felicitous address from Assistant Director Rev. Fr. Jimmichan Karthanam. Dr. Lissy Kachappilly, Vice-Principal, concluded the session with a vote of thanks.

Session 1

The retreat began with an insightful session led by Dr. S. Srinivasaragavan, Senior Professor and Head of the Department of Library and Information Science at Bharathidasan University, Tiruchirappalli. Dr. Srinivasaragavan presented on "Scholarly Information and Communication Systems: A NAAC RAF Perspective," where he offered an in-depth exploration of how information and communication systems play a pivotal role in academic environments. He emphasized the critical standards and metrics that institutions must address to enhance academic quality and achieve higher accreditation. He also shed light on best practices for managing academic resources and data effectively, aligning these with NAAC's expectations for continuous improvement in higher education institutions.

Session 2

Rev. Dr. Thomas Chathamparambil, former Vice-Chancellor of Christ University in Bengaluru and CMI Prior General and the governing body member of the college, delivered an inspiring session on the theme of "Institution Building in Autonomous Status." Drawing from his extensive experience in higher education and institutional leadership, he offered valuable insights into the unique opportunities and challenges that come with autonomous status. He highlighted the crucial steps involved in building a resilient academic institution, emphasizing the need for a vision-driven approach to autonomy. He discussed the importance of establishing a strong institutional identity, fostering a culture of academic freedom, and promoting innovative teaching and research practices.

Session 3

Prof. Dr. Achuthsankar S. Nair Senior Professor, Department of Computational Biology & Bioinformatics, University of Kerala, delivered an inspiring session on "Creativity and Innovation in Teaching, Learning, and Research." Known for his pioneering contributions to the field, Professor Nair engaged the participants with thought-provoking insights on how creativity can be cultivated within academic environments to drive transformative learning experiences and breakthrough research. He emphasized the need for educators and researchers to think beyond traditional methods, advocating for an interdisciplinary approach to teaching and research that integrates innovative strategies and tools. He highlighted real-world examples of creative methodologies, demonstrating how these have led to successful outcomes in various disciplines. He also underscored the importance of fostering a mindset that encourages curiosity, critical thinking, and adaptability—qualities essential for both students and faculty members in today's rapidly evolving academic landscape.

Day 2- Session 4

Day two of AGAM opened with a welcome address by Dr. Lissy Kachappilly, Vice Principal. Principal Dr. Johnson K M formally announced the statutory committees established under the institution's autonomous status, introducing each committee and its designated members. Dr. Ajay Joseph, IQAC Coordinator, discussed the significance of NIRF ranking and the efficient implementation of autonomy, detailing the roles and responsibilities of each statutory committee. Dr. Simi Joseph P, Secretary of the Academic Council, then presented the proposed academic schedule, while Dr. Jinsa Mary Jacob introduced the examination manual along with the planned exam calendar. Dr. Shalini Jose outlined the admission schedule, and Dr. Saravanakumar S concluded with the placement report and the action plan for the year, providing a clear and strategic vision for institutional progress.

Session 5

Dr. Ajay Joseph, IQAC Coordinator, provided a comprehensive overview of the annual plan for the upcoming academic year. He outlined strategic objectives and key focus areas, offering detailed guidance to various departments, clubs, cells, and statutory bodies on the preparation of their respective action plans. Each unit was given clear instructions to align their initiatives with the institution's goals for growth and academic excellence. Following the session, faculty members reconvened within their departments, conducting collaborative meetings to draft their individual plans, ensuring cohesion and strategic alignment across all activities for the academic year ahead.

Day 3- Session 6

During the forenoon session on the final day of the retreat, each Head of Department presented their department's annual plan in the MBA Seminar Hall. This platform allowed department heads to share their strategic goals, initiatives, and key activities planned for the upcoming academic year. The IQAC Committee, led by the Coordinator, provided constructive feedback and suggested refinements to align each department's plan with the institution's broader vision for academic excellence and continuous improvement. These discussions ensured that all departmental plans were cohesive, impactful, and responsive to the college's goals under autonomous status.

Session 7

In the post-lunch session, Principal Dr. Johnson K M delivered a concise overview regarding the preparation of the syllabus. He emphasized the importance of creating a comprehensive and coherent curriculum that meets the academic standards and expectations of the newly attained autonomous status. He outlined the key elements to consider in syllabus bus design, including learning outcomes, course objectives, and assessment methods. He encouraged faculty members to adopt an inclusive approach that incorporates feedback from stakeholders, ensuring that the syllabus reflects the diverse needs of students and aligns with current industry trends. His insights aimed to inspire faculty to develop innovative and effective syllabi that enhance the learning experience and promote academic excellence.

Inauguration of FYUGP 2024-25

Day I - 1st July 2024

On July 1, 2024, Bharata Mata College hosted a momentous event to mark the launch of the Four-Year Undergraduate Program (FYUGP) with great enthusiasm and participation from various stakeholders. The event commenced at 9:30 a.m. in the college auditorium, beginning with an inaugural ceremony highlighted by a prayer invoking divine blessings. The event unfolded in the college auditorium, where an array of facilities were meticulously arranged for the viewing of the state telecast, featuring the inaugural address by the honorable Chief Minister, Pinarayi Vijayan, scheduled for 12 p.m.

A diverse audience comprising parents, newly enrolled students, esteemed teaching staff, and specially invited guests gathered in accordance with the outlined directives.

They eagerly tuned in to witness not only the Chief Minister's inaugural address but also the impactful presidential address delivered by the Education Minister of Kerala. These broadcasts encapsulated the essence of the FYUGP launch, showcasing its significance on both state and educational landscapes.

Dr. K.M. Johnson, Academic Coordinator of Bharata Mata College, extended a warm welcome to the gathering, setting a tone of anticipation and readiness for the transformative journey ahead. Dr. Lissy Kachappilly, the college principal, followed with a presidential address, outlining the institution's vision, mission, and the structured guidelines underpinning the new curriculum. Rev. Fr. Dr. Abraham Oliapurath, the college manager, delivered an inspiring message, emphasizing the limitless opportunities offered by FYUGP for the aspiring youth, urging them to embrace its potential for a promising future.

An engaging orientation talk delivered by Mr. V. J. James, a renowned Malayalam novelist and retired ISRO engineer from Trivandrum. Mr. James captivated the audience with his personal journey, from humble beginnings in a Kerala village to achieving excellence in both literature and engineering. His motivational address resonated deeply with students and parents alike, encouraging them to pursue their dreams with determination and resilience. The event also featured facilitative addresses from esteemed guests including Ms. Radhamani Pilla, the municipal chairperson, Mr. Dhinoop TJ, ward councillor, and Ms. Mini Sivan, the PTA Vice President. Their presence underscored the community's support and commitment to the holistic development of education at Bharata Mata College. Overall, the inauguration and induction program at Bharata Mata College not only marked the advent of FYUGP but also laid a solid foundation for students to embark on their academic journey with clarity, purpose, and enthusiasm. The event concluded with the word of thanks by Fr. Anish Paul, the coordinator of the Program.

Day II - 2nd July 2024

The inauguration and orientation program for the FYUGP self-financing stream at Bharata Mata College commenced on July 2, 2024, at 10 a.m. The event began with an opening prayer, followed by readings from the Bible, Gita, and Quran, symbolizing the diversity and inclusivity of the college community.

Dr. K.M. Johnson, the Academic Coordinator, extended a warm welcome to all attendees. He highlighted the significance of the FYUGP stream and its potential to shape the academic journey of the incoming students.

The presidential address was delivered by Dr. Lissy Kachappilly, the principal of Bharata Mata College. She articulated the institution's mission, vision, and emphasized the importance of the rules and regulations that guide student life.

Rev. Fr. Dr. Abraham Oliapurath, the manager of the college, shared his insights and encouraged the students to embrace the opportunities provided by FYUGP for a prosperous future. The chief guest of the day, Fr. Benny Nalkkara, Provincial Superior of CMI SH Province, Kochi, delivered an inspiring orientation talk. Reflecting on his own experience as an alumnus, he motivated the students to aim for a bright future in today's rapidly evolving world. He stressed the need for both spiritual depth and academic excellence to navigate the challenges of the post-truth era. Fr. Benny Nalkkara also shared valuable guidance encapsulated in the "5G's" to help students stay focused on their academic goals. Following the orientation, Dr. Shibi B, Assistant Professor in Commerce and the program coordinator, expressed gratitude to everyone who contributed to the success of the event.

On July 2, 2024, Bharata Mata College (Autonomous), Thrikkakara hosted an orientation programme specifically designed for the newly admitted first-year postgraduate students of the college. Dr. Radhakrishnan E. K., Associate Professor at the School of Biosciences (SBS), Mahatma Gandhi University, Kottayam was the guest of honour. This event intended to inspire the students toward academic excellence as they embark on their academic journey and provide the students with a general understanding of the research landscape in their discipline of study.

The master of ceremony was Ms. Nimya Ann Mathews, Assistant Professor, Department of Chemistry. The program commenced with a warm welcome address by Dr. Ponny Joseph, Assistant Professor and Head of Department of Commerce. She set a positive tone for the event, expressing the importance of research orientation for the new students. Following the welcome address, Prof. (Dr.) Johnson K.M., the Academic Director of the College, delivered the presidential address. He emphasized the significance of research in academic growth and encouraged the students to take full advantage of the opportunities presented to them at Bharata Mata College.

The highlight of the event was the orientation talk by Dr. Radhakrishnan E. K. In his insightful lecture, Dr. Radhakrishnan emphasized that knowledge alone is useless unless it is applied effectively. He stressed the concept that "knowledge plus application is power," encouraging students to seek practical ways to use their academic learnings. Additionally, he spoke about the importance of resilience and the role of failure as a stepping stone to success, inspiring students to view challenges as opportunities for growth. Dr. Radhakrishnan also discussed the concept of the knowledge economy, highlighting how knowledge-driven industries are shaping the future.

The program concluded with a vote of thanks delivered by Dr. Lakshmi C., Assistant Professor and Head of Department of Mathematics. Dr. Lakshmi expressed gratitude to Dr. Radhakrishnan for his valuable time and insights, as well as to all the participants for their enthusiastic engagement. The event was a resounding success, leaving the new postgraduate students motivated and better prepared to begin their research endeavors.

The DBT STAR college scheme funded seminar on “ LAND DEGRADATION & DESERTIFICATION – REASONS AND SOLUTIONS” organised by the Post Graduate and Research Department of Chemistry, Bharata Mata College, Thirikkakara, was conducted on Wednesday, 5th June 2024. Dr. Sindhu Joseph, Head of the department of chemistry was the Co-ordinator of the program. Dr. Anu George (DBT STAR Department Coordinator), Dr. Manesh Michael (DBT STAR College Coordinator), Dr. Anu K. John and Dr. Nimya Ann Mathews were the Organizing Committee Members of the programme. The undergraduate and postgraduate students from chemistry and other science departments, laboratory staffs and faculty members were the beneficiaries of this program. The seminar commenced by invoking the blessings of Lord Almighty, graced by the presence of esteemed dignitaries, Dr. Lissy Kachappilly (Principal, BMC, Thrikkakara), Ms. Veenadevi K.R. (Assistant Conservator of Forests, Social Forestry Extension, Ernakulam) and Dr. Sindhu Joseph, (Head of the department of chemistry). The participants were welcomed by Dr. Sindhu Joseph. After the presidential address by Principal, the keynote address was delivered by Ms. Veenadevi K.R, Assistant Conservator of Forests, Social Forestry Extension on the topic “Land Degradation & Desertification – Reasons and solutions”.

In her talk, Ms. Veenadevi highlighted the reasons and solutions of land degradation and desertification. She described the relevance of land restoration and also elaborated the slow degradation of our biodiversity leading to dire consequences such as desertification and increase of global average surface temperature. By mentioning the slogan of world environment day 2024 - “OUR LAND, OUR FUTURE” she emphasized our responsibility to conserve the nature.

IQAC
Date : 22/5/2024

The Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) at Bharata Mata College organized a one-day orientation session on May 22, 2024, designed to familiarize higher secondary school principals and teachers on the newly implemented Four-Year Undergraduate Honours Programme (FYUGP). The session took place in the AV Room at 09:30 AM and Dr. A. S. Sumesh, Convenor of the Regulations Sub-Committee for FYUGP Implementation at MG University and Associate Professor of Hindi at MES College Nedumkandam, served as the resource person. The primary objective of the orientation was to provide an in-depth understanding of the structure, regulations, and academic framework of the FYUGP. The programme aimed to elucidate the enhancements in undergraduate education introduced by the FYUGP while promoting collaboration between higher secondary schools and the college to facilitate a smooth transition for students. The session commenced with an inaugural address by the Principal Prof. Dr. Johnson KM of Bharata Mata College, who underscored the significance of the FYUGP in elevating educational quality and equipping students to navigate future challenges effectively.

Dr. Sumesh's presentation was comprehensive, addressing several critical facets of the FYUGP. He began with an overview of the programme's objectives and anticipated outcomes, highlighting its interdisciplinary approach and emphasis on skill development. Furthermore, he detailed the curricular framework, discussing the design and implementation of the new programme.

Dr. Sumesh also provided insights into the regulatory requirements associated with the FYUGP, including assessment methodologies, grading systems, and the academic standards necessary for both secondary and tertiary education institutions. The orientation session witnessed active engagement from principals and educators representing various higher secondary schools. The interactive question-and-answer segment allowed participants to engage directly with Dr. Sumesh, seeking clarifications on specific components of the programme while sharing their perspectives on the challenges and opportunities posed by the FYUGP. The feedback received from attendees was overwhelmingly positive, with many expressing enthusiasm about integrating the new curricular framework into their academic practices.

Hridya Varma of B. Sc Chemistry (2020-2023 batch) came to the department for the first alumni interaction arranged during the academic year 2024-25 on Thursday, 6th July 2024. She was going to pursue M. Sc Food science and Technology at Curtin University, Australia by July end. Hridya was delighted to share the various Steps involved:

1. Agency selection: Many students, including herself, opted to seek assistance from education agencies; Hridya did her process through an agency named 'Fly World'. Other agencies are Santa Monica, IDP and KC Overseas.

2. English language test: Two options are there for students preferring Australia; they can either go for IELTS or can choose PTE which is an online based exam.

3. Course Selection: Thorough research is essential during course selection. It's crucial to focus on the scope and future job possibilities in the chosen country. Hridya chose food science and technology as her program as it has great demand in Australia.

4. University Application: Once the course is selected, the next step is to research universities offering the program. After shortlisting the universities, the application process begins.

5. Offer Letter and Fee Structure: Upon meeting the requirements, the university sends an offer letter containing detailed information about the course and its fee structure. This step marks a significant milestone in the journey.

6. Visa Application: After accepting the offer and meeting all requirements, the next step is to pay the course fee. Subsequently, the visa application process begins, which includes submitting necessary documents and attending interviews.

Hridya said that the academic ambience in Bharata Mata college has really helped her in achieving her goals. She expressed her gratitude to all the teachers of chemistry department for their encouragement and support.

The orientation on "Make A Difference (MAD) Volunteer-ship" was a highly informative and inspiring session that introduced prospective volunteers to the various roles available within the organization. Held on August 18, 2024, at the Second Year MSW Classroom, the orientation was organized by MAD and facilitated by Mr. Vishal, a MAD Representative. The primary objective of the session was to provide an overview of MAD's mission, outline the specific roles volunteers can take on, and inspire participants to join MAD in making a positive difference in the lives of children and youth. The orientation emphasized the significant community impact that volunteers can make by contributing their time and effort to break the cycle of poverty for children in need of care and protection. The session also outlined the specific roles available, such as Academic Support Volunteer (ASV) and Wingman. Additionally, participants learned about MAD's year-long program, which involves mentoring five children from vulnerable backgrounds with the aim of building a supportive community around them. Overall, the orientation session by Mr. Vishal was highly motivational and provided a clear understanding of how volunteers can make a substantial impact through their involvement with MAD. The session concluded with a call to action for participants to step forward and become part of a movement dedicated to changing lives and creating a more inclusive society for India's youth

The REWILD program, held as part of Environment Day on June 5, 2024, provided a valuable learning experience on ecosystem dynamics and conservation strategies. Hosted by the rewilding initiative, the event aimed to restore native ecosystems, boost biodiversity, and promote sustainable practices by integrating natural forest growth with practical farming benefits. Participants learned about reintroducing indigenous species, improving soil health, and supporting urban rewilding. While most attendees engaged actively, some younger adults appeared disengaged, preferring to socialize rather than participate. Despite this, the event saw enthusiastic involvement from families, seniors, and children, particularly in hands-on activities like planting trees. The program highlighted the importance of biodiversity and community involvement, offering insights into successful conservation strategies and environmental policy advocacy. Manoj Kumar played a crucial role in the program's success, offering a comprehensive orientation and fostering a welcoming atmosphere. The twelve students from Bharata Mata School of Social Work demonstrated their commitment to environmental conservation by actively participating in the program. Overall, the REWILD program effectively equipped participants with the knowledge and skills needed for impactful conservation efforts, inspiring future leaders in environmental stewardship.

On July 18, an international seminar on “Equality, Opportunity, and Social Justice” was held at the MBA Seminar Hall, with Dr. Jennifer Worsley from the University of Wolverhampton, UK, as the keynote speaker. Dr. Worsley’s presentation highlighted the importance of equality as a foundation for social justice, exploring how equal opportunities in areas like education, healthcare, and employment are essential for fair and inclusive societies. She presented global data illustrating the adverse effects of inequality on social cohesion and individual well-being, arguing that true equality requires not only access to resources but also fair treatment under the law. Dr. Worsley also shared successful social justice initiatives from various countries, emphasizing their positive impacts on quality of life and community resilience. An interactive Q&A session followed, allowing participants to discuss the practical challenges of implementing social justice reforms and the role of education in creating equitable societies. Dr. Worsley’s insights and recommendations resonated with attendees, who left with a renewed commitment to fostering equality and justice in their communities.

Date : 05/06/2024

In connection with the celebration of World Environment Day, the Department of Botany at Bharata Mata College organized a meaningful initiative, highlighting land restoration as a key pillar for the protection and revival of ecosystems, critical to achieve the sustainable development goals. The programme aimed to promote environmental conservation and related initiatives. International Seminar was conducted based on the theme of World Environment Day 2024 - "Land Restoration, Desertification, and Drought Resilience," delivered by Luise Muller (School of Bio sciences, University of Rostock, Germany). She emphasized that land degradation directly affects people's lives and livelihoods, threatening water and food security, and contributing to migration and displacement. She stressed the need for concrete action to achieve transformative change to tackle the climate and environmental crisis and its implications on human mobility. Dr. Lins Simon, the Head of the Department of Botany conveyed that the day provides a vital platform for promoting progress on the environmental dimensions of the sustainable development. All students and faculty members actively participated in the seminar. This initiative helped our students to be aware of the urgent need to address environmental challenges.

Enrichment of Botanical Garden Enrichment of the botanical garden was carried in connection with World Environment Day, in which all the faculty members and students actively participated. Our botanical garden comprises of ornamental and medicinal plants. The garden is maintained with the objective of familiarizing college community about the medicinal value of plants. The garden also helps to keep our students always connected to traditional knowledge of medicines. Many of the plants grown in the garden are inseparably woven into the culture and medicinal tradition of Kerala. For instance, Dasapushpangal, constituting ten flowers, which hold a prominent position in Kerala tradition, are grown in the garden. The garden also comprises twenty-seven 'star plants' in addition many varieties of plants which are ecologically significant.
